

Course code	90DASf0402
Course title	Colloquium IV [mandatory]
Term	通年（後期開始） 2nd - 1st
Credit(s)	2
The main day
The main period
School/Program	School of Physical Sciences
Department/Program	Department of Astronomical Science
Category	Common
Lecturers
Instructor
<table border="1"> <tr> <td>Full name</td> </tr> <tr> <td>FUJII YUKA</td> </tr> <tr> <td>SEKII TAKASHI</td> </tr> <tr> <td>EZAWA HAJIME</td> </tr> </table>		Full name	FUJII YUKA	SEKII TAKASHI	EZAWA HAJIME
Full name
FUJII YUKA
SEKII TAKASHI
EZAWA HAJIME
Outline
This colloquium provides the opportunities to learn and discuss the recent progress on astronomical sciences, as well as to develop the skill of conducting research, presentation, and discussion.
Goal
The goal of this colloquium is to establish the skills to present and discuss the progress of their own research and/or advances in their research fields.
Grading system
02:Two-grade evaluation (P: Pass, F: Fail)
Grading policy
Either P (pass) or F (fail) will be given according to the following criteria. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>* Quality of the presentation slides</li> <li>* Presentation skill and the way of handling questions</li> <li>* Active participation in discussions</li> <li>* Whether the schedule and deadlines are met</li> <li>* Attendance (more than 60%)</li> </ul>
Lecture Plan
1-2 student(s) will be assigned every week as a speaker. Each speaker gives a 20-minute presentation, summarizing the progress and the future plans of one's own research, or recent advances in the research field.

Participants are expected to ask questions and give comments on the presentations in order to promote lively discussions as well as to foster their own understanding.

* The presentation file should be sent to participants by noon on the day before the colloquium.

* The presentation slides must be prepared in English. It is highly encouraged that the talks be given in English. The only exceptions are the first talks by the 1st-year students.

* Students who will be absent or cannot show up on time due to official circumstances must notify the organizers in advance (no later than the day before the colloquium).

Location

Lecture room at NAOJ's Mitaka Campus, or meeting room at each branch. Remote attendance from other locations may be approved by the organizers in certain cases. However, given the current situation of COVID-19, the classes are held online until further notice.

Language

English or Japanese for speaking. English for presentation slides.

Textbooks and references

Not specified.

Related URL

<https://sites.google.com/site/guascolloquium/Home>

Explanatory note on above URL

Website for this colloquium